Program Prepares Interns for Success

The South Central Training and Learning Center (SCTLC) recently hosted its first regional Intern Leadership and Development Course (ILDC) for fiscal year 2003.

Instructors Dallas VanHoose and J. D. McConnell from the Center for Army Leadership (CAL) guided 25 interns through a full week of career-enhancing learning experiences.

The diverse group included South Central Region interns from:

- Corps of Engineers Savannah, GA
- Fort Benning, GA
- Fort Gordon, GA
- Fort Jackson, SC
- Redstone Arsenal, AL

Additional participants attended from Louisiana, Oklahoma, Hawaii and Alaska.

ILDC is the cornerstone of the Army's Civilian Leadership Development Core Curriculum and is required for all Department of Army and local interns.

The program provides attendees with an overview of the Army's organization, individual learning styles, team building, group dynamics, leadership styles, values and professional ethics.

Four additional South Central Region ILDC sessions are planned for fiscal year 2003.

Demand Continues for Retirement Training

More than 170 Jacksonville Corps of Engineers employees recently completed regional pre-retirement training sessions coordinated by the South Central Training and Learning Center (SCTLC).

The programs covered key topics such as Federal Employees Health Benefits (FEHB), the Federal Employees Group Life Insurance Program (FEGLI), the Thrift Savings Plan (TSP), Social Security, Financial Planning and Estate Planning.

The demand for pre-retirement training (CSRS, FERS and Mid-Career) remains high throughout the South Central region.

Additional sessions are currently scheduled for Savannah, GA; Fort Bragg, NC, and Fort Polk, LA.

Each program is presented by seasoned professionals with extensive experience on all aspects of federal retirement programs and entitlements.

TLC Reorganizes to Improve Service

The South Central Training and Learning Center (SCTLC) recently adjusted its customer assignments to enhance service.

The new assignments balance workload to maximize the staff's ability to meet customer needs.

Customers are encouraged to contact their TLC representative at any time to discuss their developmental requirements.

New HR Interns Welcomed

The South Central Training and Learning Center (SCTLC) welcomed three new Department of the Army human resources interns in January.

The new intern class consists of Kelli Curry of Huntsville, AL; Gary Stallion of Durant, OK; and Terry O'Neil of Elizabethtown, KY.

SCTLC program manager, Carol Brigance, 256-842-6528 (DSN 788), oversees the two-year developmental program that provides the interns with comprehensive training and hands-on experience in all areas of civilian human resources management.

The SC CPOC is one of two Army Civilian Human Resources Intern Learning Centers.

Additional intern placements are expected later this fiscal year.
